NAME	DATE

SCIENCE, HEALTH AND TECHNOLOGY BINGO

Directions: Play this Bingo game to see just how many science, health and technology references you can find in The New York Times. Try to find something from today's Times that fits the criteria given in each box below. When completing each box, make a short note that describes the item and lists the page on which you found it. When you have completed a row vertically, horizontally or diagonally, call out "BINGO!"

A quote from a scientist, doctor or health official	An article related to a form of energy	The name of a person who is a leader or innovator in science or technology	A science vocabulary word
A statistic related to health	A technological device or product you would like to own	A photograph that depicts science or nature and what it shows	An article about an animal, fish or insect
A chart or graph that is related to science, health or technology and what it depicts	The name of a disease or medical condition	An article about something that has affected the environment	An article of particular interest to a public health official
An advertisement for a technology product	The name of a pharmaceutical company	An article about the government's role in science, health or technology	A reference to e-commerce