
From: Margaret Besheer
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2012 11:53 PM
To: Sonja Pace
Subject: Re: Troubled by VoA - UN's Besheer leading purge of investigative blogger after demanding more "positive" coverage of the UN: please desist / respond, thank you

Hi Sonja,

Bloomberg also got a similar letter today citing these articles.

Matt Lee is furious with me now because he has not been able to intimidate me. He warned me that the Hill would hear how I'm wasting taxpayers' dollars going after him (he wants this to be a David & Goliath thing) .

Two of our 5 examination board members resigned today because he had trashed them on his blog. Now we can't find replacements because people are too afraid to have their names dragged thru the mud of his blog.

He is apparently going for a scorched earth approach. Yet he had the nerve to admonish the UNCA board today for not protecting him from (alleged) death threats he says he's received from Sri Lanka. We asked for copies of these threats but he had nothing but rants. Seeing as he's the only person who has been publishing on this issue, it seems to me the arsonist is asking the fire dept to rescue him from the building he just torched!

UNCA now discussing with UN officials (very quietly) next steps. This has exploded beyond our capacity to deal with it and they will have to step up and do their part and pull his accreditation. It is my understanding that UN legal dept is now involved.
