

Disclaimer

Legal information

We do not collect your personal information when you visit our website. In specific cases, you may be asked to provide your name and address. You will, however, be notified in such cases. If you provide us with your details online in order to make contact, we reserve the right to use this information for marketing purposes.

Use of the website is limited to viewing the pages via a browser. All information is provided without any guarantee of accuracy, completeness or timeliness. The website may not be used for commercial purposes.

The website contains links to other websites. We do not monitor the content of these linked websites. We take no responsibility for the content of these linked pages. The website is analysed by Google Analytics and Webalizer.

Data protection

Internal data must be transmitted electronically via the Internet so that it can be processed. We cannot guarantee the security of this data. If you use our forms, your data will be transmitted unprotected via the Internet. We are obliged to treat customer data as confidential and will not disclose your details to third parties.

Liability

We do not accept any liability for the timeliness, accuracy, completeness or quality of our website.

Copyright

Unless otherwise agreed, all information and documents on this website are considered to be the intellectual property of the website owner and are protected by copyright.

