Reddit CEO Admits To Editing Posts Made By Trump Supporters

Just one day after shutting down the "Pizzagate" subreddit thread, a move which infuriated a lot of users who claimed they were being censored over political views, the CEO of Reddit, Steve Huffman, has now admitted to editing individual posts made by Trump supporters that were critical of him. According to reporting from BBC, Huffman simply edits posts to redirect criticism away from him and onto the moderators of the "r/the_donald" thread.

Huffman offered the following apology admitting that he "messed with the "fuck u/spez" comments" and that "as the CEO, I shouldn't play such games."

As PJW of InfoWars pointed out to The Sun, there is nothing particularly new about leftist-run social media sites suppressing conservative free speech. In fact, since November 4th the largest tech giants, including Google, Facebook and Twitter, in collusion with the mainstream media have launched an all out war against "fake news" sites.

Paul Joseph Watson, editor-at-large at the website InfoWars, told The Sun Online that prominent websites and social networks "routinely" suppressed right wing views.

Millions of Donald Trump supporters watched British firebrand Watson's videos during the election campaign and he played a key role in breaking stories including the Hillary Clinton health scare.

"Reddit is potentially even worse than Twitter when it comes to censoring perfectly legitimate discussion," he told us.

"The site routinely removes threads that are damaging to left-wing narratives and prevents them from going viral," he claimed.

"The fact that their CEO is now spending hours editing individual posts is

The fact that their CEO is now spending hours taking individual posts is another fascinating insight into the control freak behaviour that leftists exhibit on a regular basis."

"In recent months, companies like Reddit, Twitter and Facebook have made it clear that they do not stand on the side of free speech, and have instead decided to become echo chambers for social justice warriors.

But despite their efforts, we suspect that the more these social media giants attempt to censor their users the closer their business models will ultimately come to failure. So carry on Mr. Huffman.

For those who missed it, here is what we wrote yesterday on the "Pizzagate" controversy:

As of earlier today, the subreddit, r/Pizzagate, was officially banned by Reddit which posted the following notice to their site:

This community has been banned

This subreddit was banned due to a violation of our content policy. Specifically, the proliferation of personal and confidential information. We don't want witchhunts on our site.

Banned 21 hours ago.

For those not familiar with the movement, the "Pizzagate" subreddit was started by a group of Trump-supporting internet sleuths who were attempting to use WikiLeaks' leaked Podesta emails to connect the Clintons and John Podesta to the convicted sex offender, Jeffrey Epstein. That said, when the Podesta emails failed to reveal a "smoking gun" linkage, the sleuths instead turned their focus to multiple "pizza" references in Podesta's emails which then led to the speculation that those "pizza" references must be code for something far more sinister.

According to the Washington Post, the "Pizzagate" sleuths are convinced that the "secret headquarters of a child sex-trafficking ring run by Hillary Clinton and members of her inner circle" is located in the basement of a Washington D.C. pizza shop called the Comet Ping Pong Pizzeria. The owner of the pizzeria, James Alefantis, says he has received numerous death threats over the past couple of weeks and has been forced to go to the FBI for protection.

It has also led to some very real harassment of the people caught up in the theory, including the owner of the Comet Ping Pong pizzeria in the District, James Alefantis. Alefantis has received hundreds of death threats over the past couple of weeks, he told the New York Times this week, after Pizzagate enthusiasts decided that his restaurant was the secret headquarters of a child sex-trafficking ring run by Hillary Clinton and members of her inner circle.

None of the wildly accusatory claims are true. Alefantis told the Times that he asked Twitter, Reddit, Facebook, YouTube and the FBI to help him stop the spread of the conspiracy theory, which uses photos of his own kids as "evidence."

According to the New York Times, Alefantis first heard of Pizzagate after he started receiving threatening messages on Instagram and Facebook. Aside from some friendships with prominent democratic insiders like David Brock and Tony Podesta, Alefantis told the Times he's not sure how this conspiracy theory got linked to his business.

None of it was true. While Mr. Alefantis has some prominent Democratic friends in Washington and was a supporter of Mrs. Clinton, he has never met her, does not sell or abuse children, and is not being investigated by law enforcement for any of these claims. He and his 40 employees had unwittingly become real people caught in the middle of a storm of fake news.

"From this insane, fabricated conspiracy theory, we've come under constant assault," said Mr. Alefantis, 42, who was once in a relationship with David Brock, a provocative former right-wing journalist who became an outspoken advocate for Mrs. Clinton.

Mr. Alefantis suspects those relationships may have helped to make him a target. "I've done nothing for days but try to clean this up and protect my staff and friends from being terrorized," he said.

Mr. Alefantis mingles with other Washington chefs and his establishment helped him to be named No. 49 in GQ magazine's 50 most powerful people in Washington in 2012. His customers include some high-powered locals, such as Tony Podesta, the brother of John Podesta, whom Mr. Alefantis knows casually. Mr. Alefantis and Mr. Brock, who is the founder of Media Matters for America, a website that tracks press coverage critical of the Clintons and works to debunk misinformation in the conservative press, broke up five years ago.

While WaPo says the Pizzagate sleuths have failed to uncover any actual evidence of their accusations, the dismissal of their efforts by the media only seems to be strengthening their resolve.

"Pizzagate" has yet to produce any actual evidence for its extremely weighty and life-ruining accusations, but every debunking of its claims — including the one in the Times — has only convinced its believers that they must be right, and that the circle of pedophiles and sympathizers trying to cover up their findings must be even bigger and more powerful than they imagined.

They (elites) are sociopaths.

5 They have a need to be able to blackmail and extort all those working for them.

-1 They are into the occult.

Pedos are regularly PROTECTED, and after they die, they are ALWAYS implied to have been 'one rotten apple', as opposed to part of a network!

Everyone knows about Kubrick's Eyes Wide Shut, and the implied pedophilia in it. But somehow we forget that Kubrick directed LOLITA an entire 35+ years earlier! We just weren't ready for the message (or in my case, not even born yet). And a PEDO NETWORK is implied in LOLITA as well!

LOL, I just watched a 1 minute clip from Lolita, and the mother takes a photo of Humbert Humbert while he is watching Lolita 'hula hoop'. I will leave it to the reader to figure out if that is symbolism, or to be taken literally!

The pedos are ALWAYS protected, because otherwise it risks unravelling the entire blackmail/extortion network. And it sends the message to future operatives that they will NOT be protected by the network, which would discourage future recruits to say the least.

Lest we forget they invented an entire phenomenon, the 'Satanic Panic', in the 70s/80s to cover up for all the evidence and testimony that was starting to emerge at that time. So they just told everyone "Nothing to see here, just some religious folks taking things out of context. You know how they can be..." Won't work again, here in 2016!

People are onto the sick fucks.

0 I'm glad you had the strength and conviction to escape that situation. Many teenagers are not mentally equipped to handle pressure from authority figures and are hence easy prey for the deviants. A big part of the Pizzagate controversy involves little children, toddlers, and even babies! These children are entirely defenceless and the crimes committed against them should be punishable by death AFAIC.

Perversion:

1. the alteration of something from its original course, meaning, or state to a distortion or corruption of what was first intended.

"all great evil is the perversion of a good"

2. sexual behavior or desire that is considered abnormal or unacceptable. From LATIN: to turn around! So perversion = inversion = Satanic inversion!

Emails to the Trump Organization and the campaign for this story were not returned, but Trump's attorney Alan Garten has repeatedly denied any relationship between his client and Epstein, other than Epstein's Mar-a-Lago membership.

Still, it's clear that Trump's association with Epstein runs deeper than just pool days at Mar-a-Lago.

"I've known Jeff for 15 years," Trump told New York Magazine in 2002. Calling him a "terrific guy," Trump continued, "He's a lot of fun to be with. It is even said that he likes beautiful women as much as I do, and many of them are on the younger side. No doubt about it—Jeffrey enjoys his social life."

According to a 2003 profile in Vanity Fair and New York gossip rags that covered the goings-on of Epstein and his famous friends in the late '90s, Trump would attend dinner parties at the 71st Street mansion. In April 1999, The Mail spotted Trump among the guests at a dinner Epstein threw in honor of Prince Andrew. In 2000, they reported he attended a "hookers and pimps" Halloween party.

First, thank you for your service to #.

I write to you today to ask for a Congressional investigation into pizzagate. Decade long child abuse has plagued our shores and indeed the world for too long. In fact, just a few days ago, Norway reported on its own pedophile scandal.

<https://www.rt.com/news/367652-norway-pedophiles-arrested-scandal/>

Wikileaks revelations through John Podesta emails are only a recent light many have seen and reported on for decades. For evidence on child murder and pedophilia, please see the following. It includes testimony from former head of the Los Angeles FBI and Special Agent Ted Gunderson. I'm curious to hear Director Comey's take on it.

1 I have seen 4Chan and Reddit a couple times. Those places are wanna' be 1 Hedge comment factories that claim to uphold standards on posting. Here are
-1 a couple of 4Chans "global rules" that are interesting. .

"Rule #8 Complaining about 4chan (its policies, moderation, etc) on the imageboards may result in post deletion and a ban."

This one is just funny: "Evading your ban will result in a permanent one."

Somewhere in there they have a description of what type of links they will tolerate backing up a position on current events. I don't see it now but I read it when I followed a Hedge link to #pizzagate.

At least here they allow you to post what evidence you want without dicatating what the source will be and which ones will be acceptable. We seem to have more of a shaming system for that. People may reject your sources but you can still post them. Once the can label a source as "fake" and then ban it's proliferation based on the fact that they don't like what it says, we are screwed.

There is a big war coming here and I'm glad the Hedge was smart about it.

If somebody is desperate for a smoking gun with political pedophilia look no further than Epstein and Bill Clinton. Just the FBI flight logs, during a time when Epstein was being investigated for trafficking, is enough to demand the questioning of Bill Clinton. The fact that haven't done that is criminal in itself. Epstein has more victims coming at him and Bill was tied to another trafficker that he got out of prison in Haiti by using his UN delegated mandate. Then of course Bill has a history of rape accusations and somebody who is willing to testify to that. That entire case needs to be reopened. If you can't get Bill you can still get Epstein.

"Leftists" don't hate Russia, want open borders, promote so called "free trade", support Wall Street, hate Iran and Syria...

These are NOT leftist web sites, they are globalist/Zionist

Huffington Post could at one time been considered a leftist web site, but was the purchased by AOL, and turned into a Zionist rag. They first brought in Howard Stein as editor and took the once interesting progressive site and turned it into a NYTimes.

This is how it works, this is what they do with all that dirty money, they buy other people's gravitas, their hard work, their honesty, and they use it to spread their lies, their propaganda.

The media calls Obama "liberal" because by doing so it gives him cover to be a neo con/liberal. In what universe, would Obama care be liberal, or the Transpacific Trade Partnership, or drone strikes or bailing out Wall Street... What is sad is when the right or conservative sites like this pick up on this lie.

Now the left is right and right is left, Clinton, the democrat is the war monger, globalist, Zionist, Wall Street sycophant, while Trump is the one who will make peace with Russia?!

If nothing else this exemplifies the power of propaganda over an idiot population.

swmguy ↪ nevertheless • Nov 25, 2016 10:20 AM

Thank you for saying this. It needs to be said over and over. Our political vocabulary is being intentionally drained of meaning. The goal is that eventually we won't be able to have meaningful political conversations. "Leftist" means nothing in America today, other than "Whatever I don't like." Same for the words "Socialist," "Communist," "Fascist," "Liberal," "Conservative," "Progressive" and on down the list. Communists and Fascists are not the same. The Nazis were not "leftist" or "socialist," regardless what they called themselves. As evidence note whom they killed first once they got into power.

No "Leftist," "Socialist" or "Communist" would have bailed out Wall Street or bailed out healthcare finance, via "ACA" or "ObamaCare."

The truth is, every politician in America is a Liberal, by definition. They favor different versions of Liberalism and pay off and pander to different constituencies, but they're all corporate Liberals.

Words actually do mean things.

2 I get where both of you are coming from but the Nazis most definitely had a socialist element. Your right if you say that the state did not control all production but this is a miniscule difference in the end. There is an impeccable research series by Anthony Sutton about the funding of the Nazi's, Bolsheviks and FDR that will convince you of this easily. They Nazis were the nationalist socialist workers party. Hitler's free shit plan was almost identical to FDR's. The same people are responsible for both of those plans and all of these systems whether you call it fascism, communism or socialism, and having a few oligarch banker run corporations involved doesn't really change that because the banking oligarchs were always there.

0 In some respects socialism can be looked at as a tactic in addition to a system and these people always use it. That is why they put so much effort into Marxist ideology. If you look at that way, it is always present. For this reason the terms Neo-Con and Neo-Liberal are essentially the same thing because they have the same origin. They just spout different BS. The Neocons will tell you that they are going to protect small business as they dismantle them in favor of oligarch run monopolies, while simultaneously pushing for war and loss of liberty.

The Neo-Liberals will push for going after the "evil corporations" while dismantling small business through pushing regulations and taxing that will strangle all competition in favor of oligarch run monopolies, while pushing for war and loss of liberty. Both end up dismantling your system, pushing for war and benefitting oligarchs. Both are pro free shit for oligarchs. Offering free shit in order to consolidate and centralize their power. They are behind the state and the big monopolies so they don't give a shit which one gains control as they are behind both. The only difference is people arguing about who gets more of the scraps off the table while they are destroying you.

As two sides fight they win at the end of nearly every battle. When the left takes your rights away they win. When the right consolidates monopoly they win. In the end it is the same end result and that is all they are after. Socialist ideology has been the most successful for them. Then they have the access to control your economy, bleed you dry and dismantle your system all under the guise of sharing. They will go for whichever system is the shortest route from where you are to complete centralized power.

Edit: I screwed up the part where I was describing the two Neos but you get the idea.

Not My Real Name • Nov 25, 2016 11:47 AM

3 Interesting. You claim words actually mean things, but then go on to say that words have no meaning at all.

0 It is only the statist -- can I use that term, or does that word not mean what you perceive it is supposed to mean too? -- who are constantly shouting from the rafters that "You don't know what socialism/liberalism/progressivism/communism means!" The terms have been hijacked, they say.

"Those policies weren't enacted by socialists/liberals/progressives/communists! Look, who they benefited!" they say. Never mind that the only reason policies like Obamacare get enacted is because they were written and enacted into law by pols with, wait for it ... socialist/liberal/progressive/communist agendas. Or whatever YOU think is the appropriate word to describe them.

Of course, the statist always make such an absurd statement because their poisonous policies have been outed and their last line of defense is to control the language. After all, it's hard to discern right from wrong, and the insane from the sane, when one tries to game the system by imposing rules that handicap the language we all use to communicate. It's really just another form manipulate the language we use to communicate. It's really just another form of censorship.

In fact ... That kind of thinking would fit right in at Reddit.

swmguy Not My Real Name • Nov 25, 2016 1:16 PM

0 It's easy to get tangled up in this sort of thing, I'll admit. If one isn't careful one starts to sound like a slightly stoned precocious teenager thinking about Being and Nothingness.

If words are intentionally misused so their common usage refers to anything and everything, as opposed to their definitions, communication becomes impossible. I think it was pretty darned clear what I was trying to say.

You don't mention how this is being on the "Right" side of the aisle as well, which I find a bit concerning.

I hear plenty of people saying Mitt Romney and most Republicans in general aren't really "Conservative." Would you agree that "Conservative" is a word being drained of meaning? Why is it that so many "Strict Constitutionalists" are in favor of overwhelming State Power, intrusive policing, and no citizen recourse? Why do some utterly noxious racists and religious bigots claim they're just "Conservative?" You'd think "Strict Constitutionalist Conservatives" would want to leave religion out of the public sphere and wouldn't find race to be a topic worthy of discussion.

I'm on the left side of the political spectrum; some sort of left-wing anarchist/libertarian. I haven't found a label that fits and don't much care. I tend to not be very ideological anyway, mostly interested in solving specific problems.

I will say there's nothing "Progressive" about anything Obama, Clinton and the Democratic Party have actually done over the past 25 or so years. They've said some "Progressive" things, but their actions completely undo those things. There's been nothing worse for the actual Left in America than the corporate Democrats, and their appropriation of the Left agenda; paying lip service to the people whose support they've courted under false pretenses while implementing the agenda of Wall Street.

No "Leftist" or "Socialist," "Communist," or "Progressive" supports diverting the wealth of the nation through the insolvent corpse of Wall street via ZIRP, TARP, bailouts, etc. Nor ACA/ObamaCare, which is a bailout for the healthcare finance industry which has priced itself out of the reach of a critical mass of Americans and their employers over the past 3 decades. No "Progressive" favors the Wars of Empire, much less the current rash of adventurism in Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya, Syria, Ukraine, etc. No "Leftist" can stomach Zbigniew Brzezinski, who is the architect of all US foreign policy these past 25 years.

Nope, these people are corporatists, flat out. Cui bono? Only a small group of connected corporate interests. They're non-ideological. They adopt whatever name they think will get them cover or support and they don't care if it's just temporary. When people object, they're either Russian spies, or "not being realistic," or whatever ends a conversation.

Frank Luntz and William Safire were pretty open about trying to re-define various words, including "Liberal," a few decades back. It's worked out very well. Most people would be horrified to hear that every single American politician, including Donald Trump, is a Liberal. But it's true.

We don't have to tolerate words being used to mean whatever the user wants them to mean, like Humpty Dumpty in "Alice in Wonderland." We don't have to accept people twisting definitions so we can't communicate. We can use Dictionaries, for instance. We can read actual source material, instead of stuff regurgitated for us and seasoned to fit our preconceived notions as most information is on the internet.

Not My Real Name swmguy • Nov 25, 2016 2:37 PM

-1 You can continue quibbling over political classifications but I will continue to refuse to play that game. Again, it is a tactic that only serves to obfuscate and distract from reality.

Politics is real. There is a polarity in politics (it's not a coincidence that the words are derived from the same place) that is as real as the opposition of the magnetic poles. There is a political right and left, just as there is a magnetic north and south.

I don't care what you call the side that enacted Obamacare, and favors unrestrained immigration, and believes that government can do things better than the private sector, and stumped for LBJ's war on poverty, and adheres to the lie that redistribution of wealth is righteous and necessary. With few exceptions, they're all the same people, and they all reside on one side of the political spectrum -- no matter what you ultimately choose to call them.

It really isn't rocket science ... why would anyone choose to make it that way by playing word games unless the goal is to deceive others?

1 The distinction lies in the definition of "pubic accommodation". Reddit is not a public accommodation and thus not subject to its restrictions. Bricks-and-mortar bakeries are.

-1 That's the law, whether you or I or anyone else agrees with it. I personally believe businesses should be able to refuse to serve anyone, including posters on websites. Doesn't matter. Bricks-and-mortar businesses can't. End of story unless the law is amended.

Comment pages like this one on ZH are also not subject to regulation as a public accommodation. If they were, it would be a violation of law for moderators to moderate comments pages anywhere.

Since that ship sailed long ago, it's way late to argue a non-issue is suddenly relevant because someone's favorite hobby horse has just been unsaddled.

In this case, Reddit simply "moderated" an entire thread by eliminating it. Bitching about it is pissing into the wind.

1. the pics in the instagram of the owner are creepy, to put it politely. There was a picture of a child taped to a table. How come a pizzeria owner is the 49th most powerful person in DC?
2. Podesta's inhuman 'taste' in art - search this extensively. The 'art works' are inhuman - a boy hanging on a wall? a group of girls in a punishment circle? children cowering in cages before adults?
3. Association with Abramovic, the spirit cook.
4. Emails that do not make sense in the normal meanings of the terms - handkerchief with a map related to pizza? playing dominos on cheese rather than on pasta?
5. Ownership of the pizzeria; pics of constructions inside the pizzeria, tunnels, etc, without municipal permit.
6. The speed with which Snopes 'investigated' and concluded that the allegations are false; the NYT defending a common pizzeria?

What is the giveaway? NO ONE BRAGS THEY CAN'T SEE ANY EVIDENCE ! Imagine in a meeting at work if a group of people were discussing something, and the you bragged "I don't see it all." You'd look like an idiot - bragging you can't see any pattern, when everyone else can see the pattern. This is a standard deceiver behavior any interrogator would seize as "guilty behavior artifacts #1", if a suspect tells him he's fantasizing, after he already sees the obvious pattern of connections.

A real denial from the owner would go something like this: "I'm going to sue all of you in court next week if you don't stop", since he would not be afraid of inquiry, he would welcome it.

Now, I'm curious...Is the reason you reject the idea because of the 'evidence' presented, or because of the particular accusation of pedophilia?

My working theory here is that people are likely to be turned-off or reject it because of the pedophilia label. That they know it's a bit odd, but that it smacks too much of the old Geraldo-era Satanic child killer thing and is thus not believable.

I think if folks were just shown the odd stuff, without the interpretation, they'd be more apt to get curious about it and maybe check into it a bit.

By introducing pedophilia, they shut the discussion down for most folks before it has begun.

Am I close, or way way off?

by way of how the world really works please consider this; if a newspaper editor likes candidate A, when he opens the mailbag for his OpEd page he gets letters from people who like A and hate A. some of the people who hate A are intelligent, educated and articulate and some are batshit crazy. this editor will print only letters from the second group, in order to make the criticism of A seem less intelligent. on the Sunday morning news programs they always have the same guests (Krugman for instance) there are plenty of economists who criticize the presidents economic policy, but we get Krugman. out here on the blog there are plenty of smart people but on TV you get lame. Peter Schiff has figured this out, he is a really smart guy who writes and speaks to people at the 8th grade level. so you see your point of view is being edited constantly, dumbed down, diluted, and the only people whose share your opinions who are allowed to publically record their comments are en embarrassment to your ideas and beliefs. pizzagate is only a problem to a degree since social media is not MSM or information. i would hate to be a Trump supporter now since the batshit crazies control the dialogue. all to a purpose ducklings, because the cycle of presidential love begins with the honeymoon and ends with more people who disapprove than approve, just the way of the world and the media is all too glad to feed the reptilian brain where the cycle of king worship turned into public loathing plays out in cycles.

So I head over to <http://www.theblaze.com/news/2016/11/24/reddit-ceo-admits-to-editing-pos...>

And I hear that Business Insider reported this. Is this the same business insider that was a liberal lying sack of sh1t and cancelled insider posting status, cancelled posting at the entirety of their website after the election results?

Let me provide the details!

BI(Business Insider) decided just before the electiion to post headlines in naked support of Hillary and the Globalist eltte criminals. And wtf did Drudge do? He hot linked them and the comments rolled in! It was so lopsided that there might be some ridiculous article and then commentary that showed that the readers weren't buying any of it.

The biggest lie this election cycle was that the polls didn't see the landslide coming. What actually happened is that a crooked and discredited media despite the BILLION SPENT couldn't deliver.

<http://www.businessinsider.com/obama-donald-trump-north-carolina-2016-11>

IT IS GONE, the comments gone, (deleted) however there was no effing mistake who was going to win that election!

The MSM has now resorted to Donna Brazil methods and simply getting triggered by a truth that they yet to accept. But make no mistake about it, and the media kept discounting the online polls as innacurate. Here is what the media and the pizza-gate story shows:

We don't trust the institutional media any longer, we know that they lie, we marvel at pro late-term abortion hillary sitting with the cardinals

If you think Comet Ping Pong is clean, check the Comet Ping Pong Website page "friends" listed at <http://www.cometpingpong.com/friends-1/>, from their link to heavy breathing at <http://heavybreathing.net/>, and tell yourself that site isn't loaded with weird sex and pedophilia. The links are still active today and the content only legal because it's animated graphics - the content is sick and disgusting; but form your own opinion. It's guilt by association if nothing else. And Comet Ping Pong hosted a DNC fundraiser.

After initially reading one highlighted Wiki Podesta email, I thought Podesta may be just a weird old freak toying with Dungeons and Dragons as some of the terminology is the same. However, Podesta's interest in Spirit Cooking is just too demented. The yarn spins on from there ... Clinton should have disassociated herself from Podesta a long time ago.

That's what I said in my previous post...let the audience come to it on their own, don't introduce buzzwords like pedophilia right off the bat. Just present the content, without labeling it with anything more inflammatory than a "Gee, THAT'S weird...what is THAT about?".

The weirder and more bizarre the accusation, the more careful you must be in introducing it. It is often best not to introduce it at all, but simply to present the evidence with "What IS this?" and allow the audience to draw the conclusions themselves.

3 The 'pizza-gate' folks could be hurting their narrative by focusing on the pedophilia angle here...might be tough to prove. And, as we see here, it has enough of an 'ick' factor to make it fairly easy to shut it down.

The 'pizza' references are a bit weird, and come off as 'code'...but for what? Perhaps it would have been better just to focus on the fact that it DOES sound like code, and let the audience try and figure out what it is code FOR. I imagine, whatever it is, that there are powerful people who do NOT want to see this discussed openly, or they wouldn't use code.

If it IS pedophilia, they'll come to that on their own. And if it is something else, they'll nsee that too. When enough folks start digging around, something is bound to turn up. But by introducing the subject right at the beginning, they just got themselves shut down right out of the gate...(no pun intended..).

By avoiding the convenient excuses to shut 'er down, they could have kept the discussion going about just WHAT these people are talking about with all this 'pizza'? What does it MEAN? By suggesting pedophilia right off the bat, it sounds 'agenda-like' and gives the opposition the excuse they need to end it. Leaving it unsaid would have been far better, and left people with the question, "Yeah, what DOES that mean? How weird..."

Let the audience draw the conclusions, do not suggest them. Don't say 'what', ask 'why?', and let THEM answer. If its there, enough people will start to see it without you saying a thing.

1 I actually wasn't saying anything about the accusation itself, I simply don't know enough to do that...what I WAS trying to say is that it might be more productive to change tactics in presenting it, that's all.

Not everyone is 'on board' with the conspiracy-theory mindset, and with algorithms and search engines, certain phrases are best avoided. And it does turn a lot of people off who might actually be interested in that content.

You can present your case to a wide audience by avoiding the pitfalls of posting unpopular topics with easy to target inflammatory phrases, or you can be shut down until you are preaching to the choir in a tiny room and reaching no one.

You DO understand how easy you make it for them, don't you? I wouldn't be saying these things if I was your enemy, I'd just shut up and let you keep talking and getting banned and shut down...

Several actually.

1) Since you presumably dislike Google a lot, why do you encourage others to use their services?

2) Since you don't like Jews and don't like non-Jews (or Goyim sheepletards, as you so fondly refer to your fellow citizens), who do you like?

3) Since you regard yourself as a superior form of life to the "Goyim sheepletards", you clearly assume that you are some manifestation of Enlightened Being. I presume you champion policies that will help elevate and cement the overlordship of beings such as yourself over the interests of the ordinary citizen, of whom you express constant contempt. How does this make you ANY DIFFERENT from your alleged Jewish conspirators, who are apparently sacrificing the interest of their fellow citizens for their own secret benefit?

4) If you were to be re-incarnated tomorrow as a black man, would you then be a rabid supporter of the Nation of Islam?

-1 I think the facts are self-evident that you are the one who assumes all Jews are the same (evil).

Personally, I think they are individuals who contain the usual mixture of talents and drawbacks like anyone else.

But I do have some admiration for traditional Jewish culture:

Take care of your family first.

Take care of your friends and business associates second.

Take care of everybody else only after these two things have been accomplished.

Work hard.

Don't borrow money for stupid shit.

Save, save, save.

Don't let your children mate with lazy losers.

Frankly, I think those are pretty traditional American values, and I wish I was better at them. Unfortunately, I was raised by wolves and had to figure it out on my own. I didn't have some Jewish mother screaming in my childish ear to grow up and go make something of myself.

----- tarabel • Nov 25, 2016 2:03 PM

kek you were adopted and raised by spics?

1

why did you forget to tell the other traditional part of each medal.

Take care of your family first. - and make sure non-jews abandon family values. sew on their social structures.

Take care of your friends and business associates second. - to use them as much as you can. once you cant use them or dont need them any longer, throw them away by betraying them and steal as much money form them as possible.

Take care of everybody else only after these two things have been accomplished. - by searching constantly for new useful idiots. may they benefit you in future.

Work hard. - not with the shovel but by making others work hard for you.

all their wealth is transmitted directly to you without them even figuring that out. to make so many people work for you is a hard job.

Don't borrow money for stupid shit. - instead lend money. thats why there are so many "lehmanns" amongst us kikes

Save, save, save. by constantly stealing and accumulating wealth.

Don't let your children mate with lazy losers. - make sure you children marry a stinky fat snob with diabetes but as long he has money its fine. crohn's disease is your friend!

by the way wolves have a very fine social structure and take care of each other, actually no way you should compare wolves to spics.
