OFFICIATING UPDATES FOR 2022-23 NBA SEASON

TRANSITION TAKE FOUL

New Rule: Impose a heightened penalty (the offense is awarded 1 FT attempted by any player in the game and possession) when the defense commits a transition take foul. (See Page 97 for more information on the transition take foul.)

Rationale: 1) Reduce game stoppages caused by an unaesthetic non-basketball play 2) Increase the number of exciting fast-break opportunities.

Proof of Concept: The proposed rule has virtually eliminated transition take fouls in the G League.

Identifying a Take Foul:

- Primary Factor - Defender does not make a legitimate play on the ball.
- Other Common Factors - Defender “gives up” on the play (e.g., wraps up or grabs opponent)
Defender is out of position and unable to make a legal play on the ball

MODIFICATIONS TO PLAYING RULES

Replay Review of Out-of-Bounds Calls: The experimental rule regarding replay review of out-of-bounds violations that was in place for the 2021-22 season has been adopted on a full-time basis. Accordingly:

1. The game officials no longer can initiate replay review of out-of-bounds violations during the last two minutes of the fourth quarter (and the last two minutes of any overtime period); and
2. Teams may trigger replay review of out-of-bounds violations via a Coach’s Challenge throughout the entire game.

Under this rule, a Coach’s Challenge is the only mechanism capable of initiating replay review of out-of-bounds violations at any point during the game.

Resumption of Play: The resumption of play rules have been modified such that, if applicable in connection with a Coach’s Challenge or any call treated as an inadvertent whistle, possession will be awarded to the team that clearly and conclusively would have imminently gained possession at the time of the whistle. If the standard is not met, play will be resumed via a jump ball.

Two factors are relevant to determine whether a team clearly and conclusively would have imminently gained possession of the ball at the time of the whistle:

1. The proximity of opposing player(s) to the ball (or lack thereof); and
2. The actual outcome of the play in the natural and immediate aftermath of the whistle (e.g., a player secured the ball).

POINTS OF EDUCATION

Non-Basketball Moves
Traveling
Freedom of Movement
Respect for the Game

For more on this season’s Points of Education, visit
NBA Official at official.nba.com.

Team Bench Behavior

Goal: Reduce disruptions and distractions during live play

Policy Rationale: 1) Integrity of competition 2) Safety of game participants

Rules:

Prolonged standing: Players not in the game may not remain standing at or away from their team’s bench during the game

Unsportsmanlike distractions: Players and coaches are prohibited from attempting to distract their opponents in an unsportsmanlike manner

Penalties: Violators are subject to in-game penalties (e.g., technical foul, delay of game) and post-game penalties

ENHANCED INSTANT REPLAY PROCEDURE

Purpose: Provide earlier notice of a scoring change resulting from the Replay Center’s review of a made basket that was incorrectly scored during live action.

Procedure:

1. During live game action, Replay Center reviews a made basket to determine whether it was incorrectly scored by the on-court officials
2. Replay Center informs the courtside administrator of the scoring change
3. The courtside administrator turns on a new blue light located at the scorer’s table
4. Upon noticing the blue light, the on-court officials stop the game at the next neutral opportunity to enable the scoring change to be announced

HEIGHTENED PENALTY FOR TRANSITION TAKE FOUL

Beginning with the 2022-23 NBA season, the penalty for committing a take foul (a foul in which the defender does not make a play on the ball) to stop a transition scoring opportunity (which exists when, following a change in possession, the offensive team is continuously advancing the ball while it has an advantage based on the speed of the play, the position of the defenders or both) will be as follows:

- The offensive team will be awarded one free throw, which may be attempted by any player on the offensive team in the game at the time that the foul is committed.
- The offensive team will retain possession of the ball.
- The defensive player who commits the take foul will be assessed a common personal foul.

Under the new rule, teams may commit a take foul during the last two minutes of the fourth quarter and the last two minutes of any overtime period (regardless of whether the foul occurs during a fast-break play) without triggering the heightened penalty. This exception will allow the defensive team to use the longstanding tactic of taking a foul to stop the clock during an attempted comeback or prevent the opposing team from potentially tying the game with a three-pointer.

Below are additional clarifications to the new rule:

- A take foul committed immediately after a change of possession but before the offensive team has the opportunity to advance the ball will be subject to the heightened penalty. This will prevent the defensive team from immediately taking a foul to keep the offensive team from generating a transition scoring opportunity in the first place.
- A foul committed against any offensive player (including a player who does not have the ball) will satisfy the definition of a transition take foul if the other elements of the transition take foul rule are satisfied. This will prevent the defensive team from circumventing the new rule by taking a foul on a player who does not have the ball.
- The transition take foul rule does not apply if the offensive player is fouled in the act of shooting. In that case, a shooting foul will be called.

Any foul committed by a defender attempting to make a legitimate play on the ball will remain a common personal foul (regardless of whether the foul occurs during a fast-break play) and will not be subject to a heightened penalty under the new rule. However, the offending player may be assessed a clear-path-to-the-basket foul if the criteria for a clear-path foul are met.
