Trademark Infringement

Arduino AG is the legal owner of ARDUINO®, ARDUINO, and other trademarks in many jurisdictions worldwide. Arduino AG is entitled to take legal action against any unfair use of our intellectual property, and to prohibit others from using our trademarks in connection to the same or similar goods and/or services being offered in the jurisdictions covered by our trademarks.

Unlawful use of Arduino AG trademarks risks exposing our consumers to products which have not been subjected to our strict quality control as well as damages our reputation for quality and reliability that we have gained over a number of years. For these reasons, we take any unauthorised use of our trademarks seriously and may report any infringing listing to eBay.

Copyright Infringement

Arduino AG operates primarily from the official site www.arduino.cc. Editorial contents of the arduino.cc website, including texts and photographs, are released as Creative Commons AttributionShareAlike 3.0.

The editorial content may be used by third parties as long as the same license is applied. Someone using editorial content without adopt the Creative Commons AttributionShareAlike 3.0 licence may be violating Arduino AG's intellectual property rights, which may lead to eBay listings being reported and taken down for copyright infringement.

To eBay Buyers:

Arduino AG products are being sold through a secured supply chain. If an Arduino AG product is being sold online for less than the stated price in the market, it may indicate a counterfeit. To learn more about how to spot a counterfeit board, please visit
