Patchexpertus sells a variety of embroidery patches. We specialize in designing and creating flower embroidery patches. One of our signature designs is the Red Rose Flower Embroidery.

Patchexpertus enjoys full copyright protection for its originally created works. We have invested considerable time and money in our works and we will take all necessary steps to guard and enforce our intellectual property rights. We reserve all copyrights and related rights. We have not pre-authorized any individual or organization to use or copy our work in any way. Patchexpertus carefully monitors all eBay listings/auctions and reports any unauthorized use or infringement to eBay immediately. Meanwhile, Patchexpertus will pursue copyright protection in court whenever necessary.

Please note that copyright protection is automatic, no official registration is required.

Under the current U.S. copyright law (17 U.S. Code § 102), a work is automatically protected by copyright when it is created. A work is created when it is "fixed" in some tangible form. Copyright notice (e.g. © 2017 John Doe) is not required for works created after March 1, 1989. As a result, all Patchexpertus original creations are protected by copyright.

The copyright law (17 U.S. Code § 106) also grants us the exclusive rights to reproduce, to prepare derivative works, to distribute, and to display our works. Purchasing of our patches does not give the purchaser any of the exclusive rights granted to us under the copyright law.
